In Honor of
Dr. Elva Williams Hunt

The C. Waldo Scott Center is honored to acknowledge the support and commitment of Dr. Elva Williams Hunt. Dr. Hunt has served on the Scott Center's Board of Trustees for 20+ years. She was instrumental in establishing a partnership among the Scott Center and Newport News Public Schools. As an advocate for the educational success of youth residing in the Southeast community, she committed educational resources to the Scott Center, which allowed for a homework and enrichment program identified as H.I.K.E.

Dr. Hunt had a lengthy career with Newport News Public Schools during the period of 1962-2004. She was responsible for many noteworthy initiatives. She spearheaded the establishment of the diversity education program for personnel in the Newport News Public School System, to include an annual diversity conference.

Dr. Hunt also served her community through participation with various organizations to include People To People, NAACP, and National Alliance of Black School Educators. She is also a member of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority Inc. and Carver Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Hunt received her Bachelor of Science as an Education major and Masters of Arts in Administration and Supervision from Hampton University. She received her Doctor of Philosophy in Urban Services from Old Dominion University.

Dr. Hunt considers her greatest accomplishment is that of parenting three children, her daughter, Amelia Hunt Birchette, her son, Robert Hunt, and her nephew, Benjamin Lee Williams.

Charles Waldo Scott, M.D.
April 22, 1916 - January 9, 1993

Dr. Charles Waldo Scott was born in Atlanta, GA on April 22, 1916. He received his primary and secondary education through the Newport News Public Schools and graduated from Huntington High School in 1932 as Salutatorian.

After completing medical school, Dr. Scott returned to Newport News in 1948 where he began a long and distinguished private medical practice, serving his community for more than 43 years.

Dr. Scott was also known in his community for advocacy and work for civil rights. He had a passion for the improvement of educational opportunities and served as the first black member of the Newport News School Board.

Scott was a committed husband to the late Mrs. Mae Hamlin Scott and father to their children, Charles Waldo Scott, Jr. (deceased), Robert C. Scott, Dr. Jon Scott, and Valerie Scott Price.

The C. Waldo Scott Center for H.O.P.E. was named in honor of Dr. Scott in 1993. On June 25, 2010, the City of Newport News unveiled a historical marker in honor of Dr. Scott, at the former 3100 Wickham Avenue site.

Greetings:

I would like to take this time to thank all who have supported the C. Waldo Scott Center by investing in our community youth and families. As we are in a period of transition, we have not waivered on our commitment to serve the community. Your donations and volunteerism help us to maintain our commitment of H.O.P.E. (Helping Our People Emerge). Our work is not complete, we ask that you continue to support our efforts.

*Graciously,
Crystal Rainey
